BODY POSITIVITY

Dear human, can I tell you something? You're effing beautiful in your own magnificent way. Don't let anyone tell otherwise. NOT even yourself. How often do we categorise ourselves? Fat, skinny, thick, muscular, curvy , etc. You might've categorized yourself in one of the above categories. No one has a perfect body. Everyone has their own flaws. Why do we think about what others might say? It's just that we still don't believe we are "BEAUTIFUL" because we don't have an ideal body. Overcoming your body image is a self-acceptance journey which takes a lot of supporting yourself and a lot of work. Your self-image isn't something that others can alter for you, it's something which you have to do it yourself. Body positivity works two ways- you should love yourself no matter what size you are and no matter whatever other people think. This doesn't mean that you have to stay the same. Accept who you are and stays stagnant rather change for your betterment. Change means growth, and I believe that we should always be growing as humans. I know it's been hard but strive for better YOU. As long as you're healthy and treating your body how it should be, you should feel amazing.
